

About Us

Improper machine safeguarding is a consistent source of OSHA violations, results in heavy fines and penalties from regulators and inspectors, and far too often results in injuries and deaths to workers.

Visitors to SaferMachines.com will find relevant articles and case studies, video demonstrations, links to industry events and training, and can source new products and technologies from machine guarding and safeguarding, to safety switches, light curtains, optical guards, safety mats, perimeter and area guards, and industrial automation technology.

SaferMachines.com will help machine builders source and specify the parts and technologies they need to build safer machines, and it will also help the owners and operators of existing machines learn how they can retrofit and add new devices and technologies to their current machinery.

SaferMachines.com draws on content from leading automation and safety magazines, industry experts, standards and regulatory bodies, and the leading technology providers, suppliers and distributors.

Corporate Information

SaferMachines.com is produced by CLB Media Inc., one of Canada's leading providers of information and marketing services to business professionals in a wide range of industry sectors.

Built on a publishing foundation of Canadian Lawyer, Workplace News and Law Times magazines, CLB Media properties now include more than 26 business-to-business publications, web sites and a host of marketing opportunities and services including custom publishing, business lists, research, web development and industry events.

With options ranging from custom-designed publications, business lists and reprints to website development, e-newsletters, webinars and events, youâ€™ll find that CLB Media has the in-print, on-line and in-person marketing expertise you need to get your message across to your customers.

CLB Media Inc. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Cartwright Group Ltd., Canadaâ€™s leading publisher of legal texts and products. Founded in 1855, The Cartwright Group Ltd. has and continues to steadfastly reflect the high standards for excellence in all we do.

For more information, visit www.clbmedia.ca.